Dear Professors Tsung-Cheng Chou, Tsang-Lang Liang and Chin-Wen Liao,

I am pleased to inform you that your paper titled “An Experimental Study on Integrating LEGO Robot Teaching into the Curriculum of Engine Practices for Automobile Departments of Vocational High Schools” has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Industrial Technology (JIT) (ISSN 2225-9007).

Papers were subjected to a rigorous reviewing process. Each paper is reviewed by at least three peers. The review process is conducted anonymously, i.e., the reviewer's name is not revealed to authors. Reviewers may request changes to papers and outline possible avenues for improvement. Based on the reviewers' reports, the editorial team (led by the editor-in-chief) decides whether to accept or reject the paper. The final paper is reviewed by the editorial team to verify that the issues were satisfactorily addressed. At last, the paper is prepared for publication. When the paper is considered acceptable for publication it will enter the queue for publication. We are glad that your paper has been successfully passing through this very strict verification procedure.

Sincerely,

Editor-in-Chief
